Church of the Divine Infant (TEX-266)
Structure (Sacred Heart Church)

Cotton Ford Rd. Wooden frame with clapboarding, gabled rectangular form with spire-capped entrance tower. Built in 1847 as Sacred Heart Church in Nacogdoches, it is among the oldest churches in east Texas. Following the construction of a larger church in Nacogdoches, the old building has been moved twice and after a brief career as St. Ann's at Fern Lake, it now serves a small parish in Center. 1 ext. photo (1936); 1 data page (1936).

Card prepared July 1975. Recorded as Sacred Heart Church in 1936.
